www.monster.com. Cost to recruiter: $7,900. Includes 30 job postings for 60 days, access to the resume database for 1 user/1 year, company profile on the site, and 5 skill screens per job (other packages available).

Vendor's estimated number of jobs: 180,000; maximum age: 2 months...

EASILY THE MOST recognizable name in online job sites, Monster.com is also the best one for both job seekers and employers. Although it's the most expensive site we reviewed, Monster.com offers...

...lose your place on the site, and you can still see your main browser window.

Job Seekers Monster.com is highly customizable via the My Monster option. Here you can set up and manage job -search agents (up to five), resumes, and cover letters, as well as track your job applications. From My Monster you can also access chat rooms and message boards. You can search for jobs by...

...example), but the excellent refine-search feature compensates for that minor shortcoming.

Monster.com's job search agents report their progress daily (there's no way to modify the search interval). Once you find a job you like, you can apply online using your saved online resume or by sending an e-mail. You can also attach one of up to five saved cover letters. Your My Monster page will keep track of all the jobs for which you apply.

The resume-building...

...resume search engine, you can hunt for candidates by criteria including resume age, location, education, job type, and keywords. You can also refine your search to trim down the results, which are displayed in an informative, easy-to-read manner.

Job descriptions are simple to post and edit, with lots of options for categorizing them in...

...many applications it generates.

Monster.com prescreens resumes by letting you select up to five job -specific skill screens for each ad. You assign each skill a minimum experience level score, and job seekers have to enter information stating how much experience they have in each area. If...

Monster.com Launch Marks Creation of World's Leading Global Online Network for Careers.

TMP Worldwide Merges Top Employment Web Sites The Monster Board(R) and Online Career Center; Network Goes Live With More Than 1 Million Resumes

TMP Worldwide (Nasdaq:TMPW; ASX:TMP) today announced that the company has merged its top-rated online recruitment properties, The Monster Board(R) and Online Career Center, creating Monster.com (www.monster.com), the leading global online network for careers. The merger of the sites reflects TMP's ongoing strategy to dominate the online careers marketplace and grow its profitable Internet business. TMP's Interactive Division, of which Monster.com is the flagship business, posted revenue...

...The new Monster.com blends the best features and services of The Monster Board and Online Career Center sites, which consistently are ranked the number one and number four career sites on the Internet by Media Metrix. In addition, the new Monster.com features new services for career-minded individuals to better manage their careers and for recruiters to find qualified employees. For job seekers, Monster.com now offers personalization, enhanced resume-building and privacy options and career content...

...provides real-time recruiting and resume screening capabilities.

Today, Monster.com offers 145,000 unique job opportunities from thousands of companies, a resume database containing more than 1 million unique resumes...

...and Belgium.

"The careers area is proving to be the new 'killer' category on the Web," said Jeff Taylor, CEO of Monster.com and founder of The Monster Board. "With today...

...Forrester Research, Inc., employment is emerging as the leading and fastest-growing category in the online classifieds marketplace -- ahead of the much-lauded categories of automobiles and real estate. Forrester predicts spending on online recruitment advertising will grow from $105 million in 1998 to $1.7 billion by 2003...

...percent of medium-sized, and 20 percent of small companies will be running recruitment advertising online, adding fuel to online advertising revenues.

"TMP is uniquely positioned to take advantage of the explosive growth in the online careers marketplace," said Bill Warren, president of Monster.com and founder of Online Career Center. "TMP's 'intern to CEO' strategy provides career solutions at all levels of experience to job seekers and employers, and the company continues to find synergies between its online and traditional core businesses, which include recruitment advertising and executive search and selection."

"Furthermore, the...

...force, reinforced by TMP's global staff of 3,500, is among the largest for Internet-based recruitment," Warren added.

Site Offers New Features for Consumers

Through advanced technology and features...

...manage virtually all facets of their careers on the Monster.com network.

New features include:

- " My Monster " - This highly personalized, password-protected area functions like a career home page. It enables job -seeking members to manage their careers by creating and storing online resumes and cover letters, facilitating personalized job searches - even when the users are off-line, and tracking the progress of resume submissions. Membership is free and open to anyone.
- Resume Enhancements - In addition to helping job seekers build and store online resumes, Monster.com now offers improved resume formatting and previewing and enables users to track...

...million resumes, Monster.com offers new features that make the network a complete desktop-to- Web solution for employers to recruit qualified employees. Key features include Resume Skills Screening, Resume Routing...

...screening resumes by filtering resumes automatically based on weighted skill assessments. The technology ranks every job applicant from most to least desirable, based on how they match against a custom-built...

...com (www.monster.com), headquartered in Maynard, Mass., and Indianapolis, Ind., is the leading, global online network for careers, connecting the most progressive companies with the most qualified career-minded individuals...
